Verifone[®] Announces PCCharge End Of Life

Verifone has announced the End of Life (“EOL”) for PCCharge payment solutions due to changes in security parameters and the new EMV liability shift.

As part of this EOL notification, you will find important dates to remember below.

Final Order Date: After May 1, 2015, Verifone will no longer be able to take orders for new PCCharge licenses issued to new customers. Customers may elect to purchase a new MID/TID or add on services to existing licenses through September 24, 2015.

Final Shipment Date: After May 7, 2015, Verifone will no longer be able to ship orders for new PCCharge licenses. Existing customers may elect to purchase a new MID/TID or add on services to existing licenses through October 1, 2015.

End of Development Date: Effective immediately there will be no new Verifone-sponsored software development with respect to PCCharge.

End of Support Date: Effective October, 1 2015, Verifone will no longer be able to support software issues on current features of PCCharge. Until October, 1 2015, support will be limited to phone troubleshooting and suggested changes to configurations or third party components and will not be able to be extended to product code changes.

NOTE: PCCharge will be removed out of boarding and maintenance systems on EOD May 1, 2015. All PCCharge orders must be submitted to NPC Deployment by 2:00pm on May 1st.
